ENGAGEMENT · FOR DISCUSSION

How I'd want to be engaged.

You asked how I'd like to be comped. My preference matches yours — a small base to fund the work, then real alignment on the value we create. For discussion only.

Hybrid

$15K/mo + expenses, then 30% of the dev-co 50% (the carry)

Aligned to value created — and I'll co-invest my own capital alongside you (amount sized in diligence).

Skin in the game

Component	Terms	What it covers
1 · Advisory retainer	$15K / mo	Funds the work during entitlement — a floor; a cost to the deal, not netted from the carry
2 · Expenses	Reimbursed at cost	Travel, survey, market & entitlement studies — billed separately
3 · Capital placement fee	1% debt · 2% equity	On outside capital I place — small on capital-light Queenstown, real on the pipeline's acquisition equity
4 · Profit share (carry)	30% of dev-co 50%	≈ ~$2.1M on the Queenstown base case (~15% of profit); Bob & partners take the balance
= Illustrative all-in (base case)	~$2.7M	~$2.1M carry + ~$0.5M retainer (~3 yrs) — ~19% of profit, mostly the contingent carry

Aligned, not double-dipping — most of the ~$2.7M is the contingent carry. And if it's not working, there's a clean off-ramp (next page).

JAL Strategies | Justin A. Levine, Founder & CEO | jlevine@jalstrategies.com

THE OFF-RAMP · FOR DISCUSSION

If it's not working — how you exit me.

You asked the right question. Worst case, in plain terms: an easy, fast off-ramp where you only ever owe me for value already created — because my pay is mostly contingent carry.

30-day notice

Terminate for convenience — either side, no reason needed.

Worst case

If we part ways	Terms	What happens
Advisory role	30-day notice, either side	Terminate for convenience — no reason needed. Retainer + approved expenses paid through the notice date; no severance.
Placement fees	Earned + 6-mo tail	Due only on capital actually placed before you let me go, plus a 6-month tail on capital I'd already sourced.
The carry	Keep only what's earned	Without cause: I keep carry on parcels already closed or under contract — speculative forfeits. For cause: forfeit all unrealized (clawback for fraud).
My co-invest	Returned at NAV	It's an investment, not comp — returned like any investor's. I don't lose it; it doesn't keep me in the deal.
Clean break	Optional buyout	I hand over all work product and step out of the dev co. You can buy out my vested carry at a set formula for a fully clean break.

You can let me go any time — and only ever owe me for value already created. That's the point of comp that's mostly contingent carry.